

OBJECTIVE

Edmonton Gamers seeks to bring two guest players to Animethon 2013: Justin Wong and Peter "ComboFiend" Rosas.

Both are big names within the fighting game community and would command a greater turnout by simply being at Animethon.

ABOUT EDMONTON GAMERS

Started in 2006 as a simple tournament gathering, Edmonton Gamers — EG for short — has since grown exponentially. Holding over 30 tournaments a year for multiple games, from 2D fighters like Marvel vs. Capcom to team-based strategy games like League of Legends, Edmonton Gamers has grown into Edmonton's definitive gaming group.

We seek to foster all of the benefits gaming has for both the individual and the community, brushing aside social stigmas all too often associated with gaming, and focusing on the personal and collective betterment inherent, as many games teach real world skills and can lead to lasting friendships. To that end, we seek to keep gamers informed of events from casual social meetups to high-end tournaments.

The Edmonton Gamers community has grown significantly from its humble beginnings: 370+ people have registered on our website (edmontongamers.com), 280+ are a part of our Facebook group, 700+ subscribe to our YouTube channel, and 640+ followers experience our live streams at Twitch.TV. Our events have attracted international attention, with connections amongst the best players in the United States and around the world.

Justin Wong

Known by every fighting game community on the globe as one of the world's finest competitors, Justin Wong brings a level of skill, determination, and clout unmatched by any gamer.

Placing 1st in 25+ major tournaments over a variety of games, from the fast-paced Marvel vs. Capcom series to the more traditional, chess-like Street Fighter flagship titles and everything in between, Justin Wong has proven his competitive edge time and time again.

Justin commands a sizeable online following on both social media and via his column, Step Your Game Up (http://www.eventhubs.com/columns/).

Despite his abilities, Justin brings a down-to-earth and friendly demeanor with him wherever he goes, always willing to impart some advice, greet fans, and help the fighting game community wherever he's able. He's no stranger to attention, having appeared in the gaming media.

as a Panel Host

The following panel was hosted by Justin, called The Wong Factor - A History of Fundamentals:

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=qIaGJcxgpFg

In it, Justin demonstrates his wealth of fighting game experience in an entertaining and informative fashion, touching on topics like what it takes to be a champion and his own unusual rise to the top.

Major Tournament - Placing Summary

- 25+ 1st place wins.
- 13 1st place wins in Marvel vs. Capcom games.
- 40+ Top 3 placements.

Twitter Presence

@JWonggg

Justin Wong has over 32,000 Twitter followers.

Sponsorship

Justin Wong is presently sponsored by Evil Geniuses, a very well known agency of pro players and tournament organizers for a wide variety of competitive games. Evil Geniuses doesn't just do fighting games: they're everywhere competitive gamers can be found, including big name PC titles like League of Legends.

Evil Geniuses' website:

http://evilgeniuses.gg/

Evil Geniuses' Street Fighter 4 section, featuring a profile on Justin Wong:

http://evilgeniuses.gg/divisions-players/street-fighter-division/

ComboFiend

Peter Rosas earned the name ComboFiend for a reason: this competitor is well known for his high energy and dextrous playstyle, including an uncanny ability to come back from the brink of defeat (Bionic Arm!) and, of course, rock his opponents with stylish combos.

As a Panel Host

ComboFiend is no stranger to the mic and has commented on tournaments.

As a Capcom employee, ComboFiend brings insight into the workings of the world's foremost maker of fighting games and virtual inventors of the genre.

Twitter Presence

@TheComboFiend

ComboFiend has over 15,500 Twitter followers.

Working for Capcom

ComboFiend is currently employed at Capcom and presently overseeing community feedback into the next major revision of Capcom's flagship fighting game, Street Fighter 4.

ComboFiend's Capcom profile:

http://www.capcom-unity.com/combofiend/

Sponsors for Edmonton Gamers' events

Edmonton Gamers has partnered with or is in talks to partner with the following sponsors:

- Canadian Joysticks
  http://www.canadianjoysticks.com/

- GDLK Apparel
  http://www.gdlk.ca/

- Happy Harbor Comics
  http://www.happyharborcomics.com/

- Mad Catz
  http://www.madcatz.com/

- Nexwave Video Games
  http://www.facebook.com/NexWaveVideoGames

Contact Edmonton Gamers

For more information, contact:

Steven Jennings
edmontongamers@hotmail.com

Carlos Faro
carlos@carlosfaro.com